Sydney Science Trail at the Australian Botanic Garden

Social Story

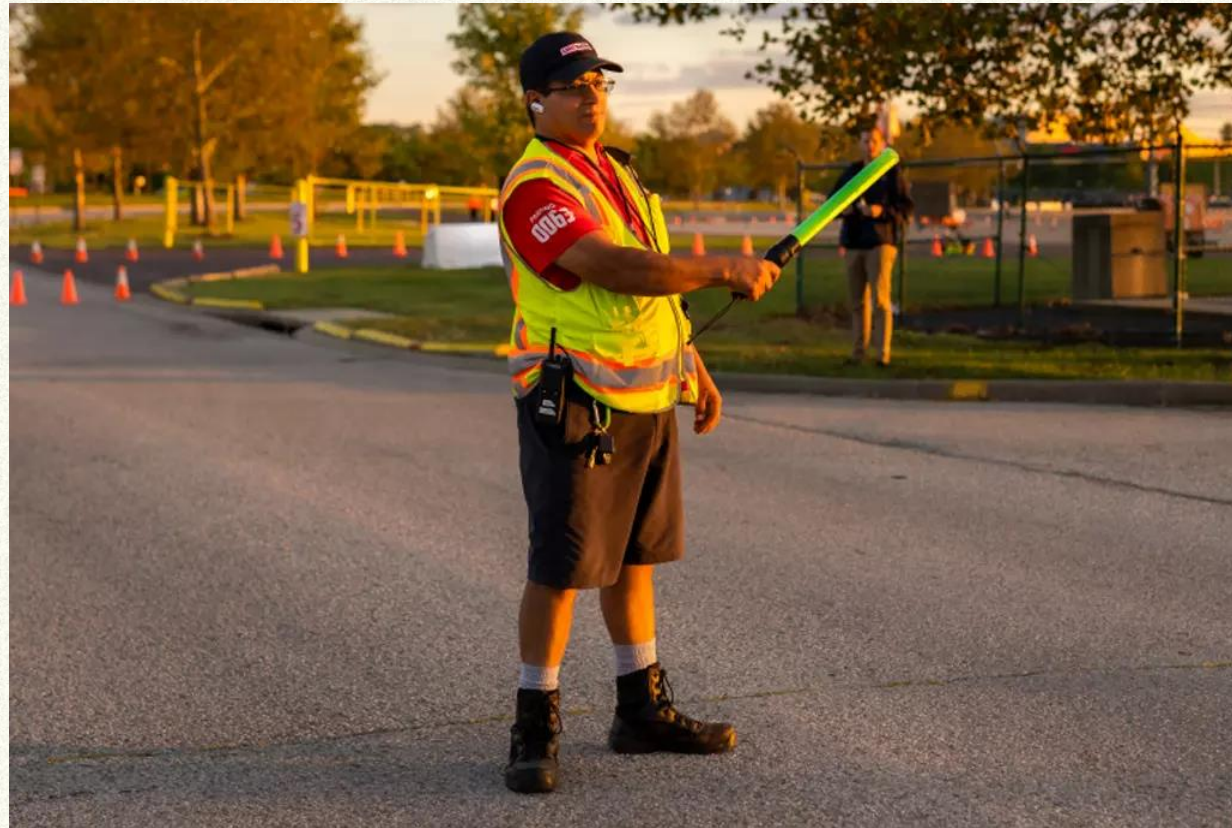

We are going to the Sydney Science Trail Community Day at the Australian Botanic Garden.
The event is on Sunday 20 August.

We might drive to the Australian Botanic Garden in a car.

The friendly Traffic Controllers will help us know where to park.

After we park,
it's a short walk to the event.

I might pass by plants, flowers, and trees!

Then we will arrive at the National Herbarium of New South Wales. It is a big concrete building and it is home to over 1 million plant specimens!

We might listen to the Welcome to Country.

There will be lots of stalls to see.

We might like to talk to stallholders and see what's on their table. There may be things to touch, see and do!

We can watch a science show.

We might see funny characters!

We can watch an Australian animal show.

We might go on a tour with a guide.

We might like to play with clay.
Our hands could get messy!

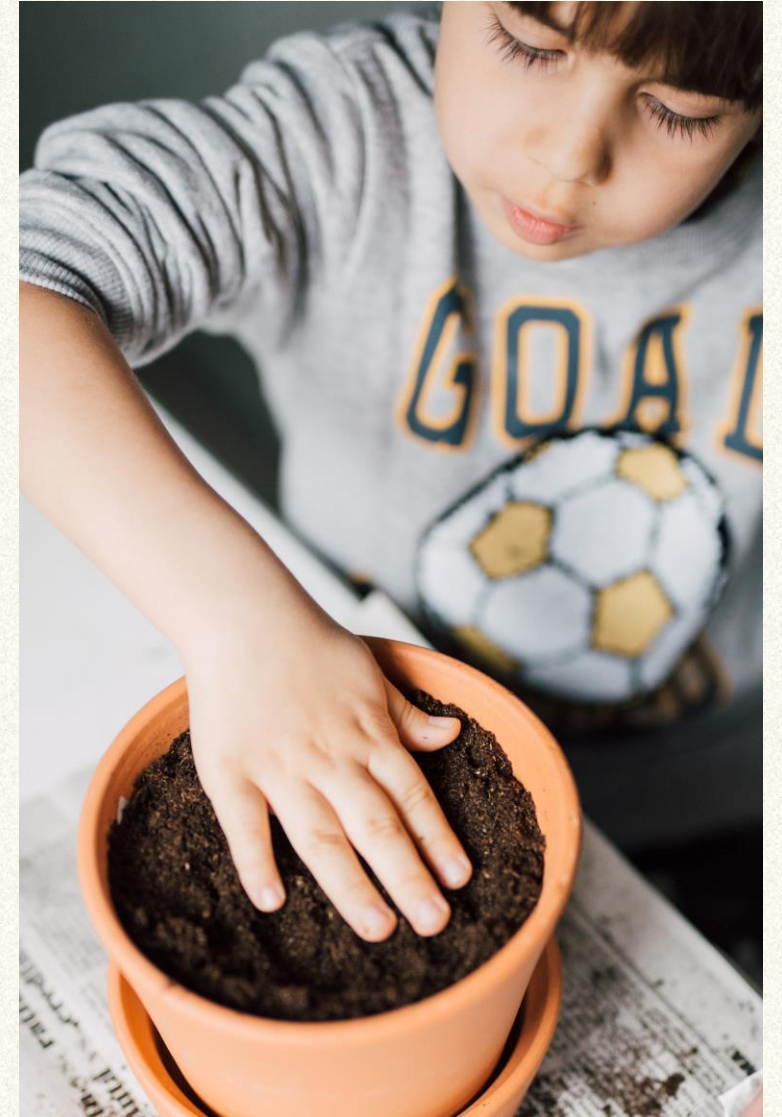

We can get our face painted.

We can visit the Australian PlantBank.

We might like to plant a seed or explore the display in the laboratory.

We might walk by the food trucks
and get something to eat.

When we have finished looking at what we want to see, we will walk back to the car and drive home.

We can't wait to see you at the Australian Botanic Garden for the Sydney Science Trail Community Day!
